

John Kingdom is a Brit who graduated from Trinity College, Dublin, Medical School in 1984. He then survived dual residency training in Paediatrics and Obstetrics-Gynaecology in Glasgow, Scotland, where he developed his research interest in the placenta. He then moved to University College Hospital, London for his fellowship in maternal-fetal medicine in 1994. Four years later he was recruited to his current position in MFM and Obstetrics at Mount Sinai hospital, Toronto in 1998. His basic and clinical research interests in placental development and pathology are funded by CIHR, the Ontario PSI Foundation and his Rose Torno Chair. John directed the Toronto Royal College MFM fellowship program for 10 years and has received University, Provincial and National teaching awards. Currently he Chairs the Promotions Committee for Obstetrics & Gynaecology and focuses on career mentorship.